“Where’s June?” Mom sung as she pulled June’s pajama shirt over her head.

“Here I am!” June laughed as her head popped through.

“And where are those hands?” Mom pulled June’s hands through the sleeves. “Oh! I found your fingers!”

“I like my fingers!” June announced as she wiggled them back and forth.

“I like your fingers too,” Mom smiled. “Did you know your body was created just the same as Heavenly Father’s body?”

“Heavenly Father’s body?” June repeated her mom.

“Yes! Heavenly Father and Jesus Christ! They have fingers...” Mom began to point to June’s body parts. “And toes... and eyes... and ears! Did you know that when the Brother of Jared asked for Jesus to touch the rocks so they could have light, he was very surprised! He saw Jesus touch the rocks and thought, ‘Oh! Jesus has fingers just like me!’ And then Jesus showed himself to the Brother of Jared and told him that everyone has a body like him!”

“I like my body!” June jumped up and wiggled her body.

“Me too!” Mom said as she pulled June to the floor to tickle her tummy.
